

INTRODUCTION

The CRPD Office of Special Events annually publishes a Special Events Planning Guide that provides Event Coordinators with permit applications, a directory of city department contacts and an overview of city regulations. The information in this guide is available on-line at www.columbusrecparks.com. Once on the Columbus Recreation and Parks Department home page go to the navigation menu at the top and select the “Events” tab, select “Events Planning Guide.” Although the guide was specifically developed for larger downtown events requiring the use of public property and City services, we hope it will also be useful to community organizations planning events in other parts of the city. The purpose of the Special Events Planning Guide is threefold:

- 1) To clearly state, in a simple format, the most common requirements of the City of Columbus.
- 2) To define procedurally how an Event Coordinator should obtain approval for the various components of an event.
- 3) To establish a reasonable time frame in which an Event Coordinator is expected to work.

The CRPD Office of Special Events serves as a clearinghouse and facilitator among various city departments and agencies affected by festivals, events and races (Refer to Race Planning Guide if planning fundraising walks/races or cycling events). Although the CRPD Office of Special Events is responsible for permitting festivals, events and races, each city department or agency is responsible for making sure that its requirements have been met. In working toward our common goal of delivering quality programming at a reasonable cost, it is important that Event Coordinators and the City of Columbus cooperate and communicate through all phases of event planning and implementation. It is the responsibility of each Event Coordinator to know all pertinent city codes and departmental regulations before undertaking an event in the City of Columbus. This document is only a guide we cannot print every city policy or regulation. If you require further information on specific procedures, requirements, or services, please contact the appropriate division representative listed on pages 19-21 in this guide.
